

(Download pdf) Law Equity: Approaches in Roman Law and Common Law (Legal History Library / Studies in the History of Private La)

Law Equity: Approaches in Roman Law and Common Law (Legal History Library / Studies in the History of Private La)

From Brill - Nijhoff
*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#3240388 in Books 2013-10-31 Original language: English 9.25 x 6.25 x .751, 1.10 #File Name: 9004262199215 pages | File size: 23.Mb

From Brill - Nijhoff : Law Equity: Approaches in Roman Law and Common Law (Legal History Library / Studies in the History of Private La) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Law Equity: Approaches in Roman Law and Common Law (Legal History Library / Studies in the History of Private Law):

Quite by accident, Roman law and English law share a peculiar dual structure. In both systems, the law (ius civile, Common law) was supported, amended and corrected by a second legal source (ius honorarium, Equity) found in the jurisdiction of particular magistrates. How did this dual structure come into being in Rome and England, and how did it influence legal developments? In Law Equity: Approaches in Roman law and Common law, seven specialists explore the origins and consequences of this interaction. The history of equity and law is treated by Willem Zwolve, Paul Brand, David Ibbetson and Mike Macnair, while John Cartwright, Hendrik Verhagen, Frits Brandsma and Willem Zwolve offer a comparative legal history on issues of substantive law.

About the Author Egbert Koops, Ph.D. (2010), Leiden University, is Assistant Professor of Property Law at University of Groningen. He has published a monograph in Dutch on the history of security interests and has co-edited two previous books. Willem Zwolve, Ph.D. (1981), University of Groningen, is Professor of Legal History at Leiden University and Professor of Anglo-American Private Law at University of Groningen. He was elected member of the Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences in 2009.