

[Free pdf] Law, Justice, and Power: Between Reason and Will

Law, Justice, and Power: Between Reason and Will

From Stanford University Press
*ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF*

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#7780534 in Books 2004-08-20Original language:EnglishPDF # 1 9.25 x .70 x 6.13l, .92 #File Name:
0804748918296 pages | File size: 25.Mb

From Stanford University Press : Law, Justice, and Power: Between Reason and Will before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Law, Justice, and Power: Between Reason and Will:

This is an unprecedented volume that brings together J. Hillis Miller, Julia Kristeva, Slavoj Zizek, Ernesto Laclau, Alain Badiou, Nancy Fraser, and other prominent intellectuals from five countries in seven disciplines to provide fresh perspectives on the new configurations of law, justice, and power in the global age. The work engages and challenges past and present scholarship on current topics in legal studies: globalization, post-colonialism, multiculturalism, ethics, post-structuralism, and psychoanalysis. The book is divided into five parts. The first debates issues of (trans-)national justice and human rights in the global age, focusing on military interventions and refugee policies. Part II traces the globalization of Western law back to colonialism, addressing the rising importance of multiculturalism, gender studies, and the quotidian in legal studies. Part III examines legal pluralism. Part IV turns from the empirical "other" of legal pluralism to the concrete "Other" in Continental ethics and philosophy. The book then traces this recent ethical turn in legal theory back to the challenges of poststructuralism in Part V. The volume concludes with a psychoanalytic rethinking of justice for the new millennium that is based on love, forgiveness, and promisea justice that, in Lacanian terms, operates outside the "limits" of the law.

"...Cheng does a superb job, at the outset, of summarizing and explaining the major concepts and issues..." (Law and Politics Book )From the Inside FlapThis is an unprecedented volume that brings together J. Hillis Miller, Julia Kristeva, Slavoj Zizek, Ernesto Laclau, Alain Badiou, Nancy Fraser, and other prominent intellectuals from five countries in seven disciplines to provide fresh perspectives on the new configurations of law, justice, and power in the global age. The work engages and challenges past and present scholarship on current topics in legal studies: globalization, post-colonialism, multiculturalism, ethics, post-structuralism, and psychoanalysis. The book is divided into five parts. The first debates issues of (trans-)national justice and human rights in the global age, focusing on military interventions and refugee policies. Part II traces the globalization of Western law back to colonialism, addressing the rising importance of multiculturalism, gender studies, and the quotidian in legal studies. Part III examines legal pluralism. Part IV turns from the empirical other of legal pluralism to the concrete Other in Continental ethics and philosophy. The book then traces this recent ethical turn in legal theory back to the challenges of poststructuralism in Part V. The volume concludes with a psychoanalytic rethinking of justice for the new millennium that is based on love, forgiveness, and promisea justice that, in Lacanian terms, operates outside the limits of the law.