Peter J. Buttaro, Emily L. H. Buttaro : Legal Guide for Long-Term Care Administrators (LONG TERM CARE ADMINISTRATION) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Legal Guide for Long-Term Care Administrators (LONG TERM CARE ADMINISTRATION):

In addition to the clinical and operational aspects of long-term care facilities, administrators and administrators-in-training (AITs) need to grasp the legal and regulatory requirements that so closely govern nursing homes. Few administrators have the time or the background to tackle law books. They need to know how the law affects facilities in concrete ways. They need an understanding of what HCFA and state health agencies require, and how they operate. Liability, corporate negligence, licensing, medical records, contracts, labor relations, and residents' rights must be fully understood to ensure that preventive policies and procedures as well as educational programs may be implemented. Legal Guide for Long-Term Care Administrators gives long-term care administrators what they need to know.
