James S. Fargason CIA LLM CPA CMA CFE : Legal Services: Auditing the Process before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Legal Services: Auditing the Process:

There is ample opportunity for auditors to dramatically improve the efficiency and effectiveness of both in-house and external legal counsel. Auditing the legal process is one way to help reduce waste associated with legal representation.

The audit can be performed within a reasonable amount of time and with a moderate amount of resources, provided the appropriate steps have been taken: Planning the audit Employing the right staff Performing the right audit steps Limiting the distribution of the report Performing a timely follow-up Legal Services: Auditing the Process provides audit checklists, key notes, and a detailed set of tests that will be useful to internal auditors and anyone subject to an audit of legal services.
